4 PAKHOI is the port for the important city of Linchow, from whence considerable quantities of foreign piece goods, etc., were formerly distributed over the country lying between the West River and the seaboard but now that the West River has been opened to steam navigation a part of the trade has been diverted to that route." Thus says the omniscient Chronicle and Directory. Now, says Mr. Acting-Consul Hughes, in his trade report for 1904, "the trade of Pakhoi is almost entirely with Hongkong. It is not growing, either, the figures for the | she had on board took fire. last six years showing a tendency to decrease considerably. Whereas in 1899 the total trade amounted to £621,280, in 1903 it was only £452,183, and this last year shows a further decrease of £20,396. Exports and imports together were worth Tls. 3,094,658. in 1904, against Tls. 3,431,594 in 1903. "It is explained that the commercial area of the port, which has been under British consular observation for twenty-eight years, s now practically restricted to the prefectures of Kaochou and Lienchou, with the Yü-lin department of Kwangsi. Kwangchouwan, another free port, is continually . Harberton, Moyori.

diverting a share of the trade of the first named prefecture. It is rather curious that while the Kwangsi rebellion was when the troubles are supposed to be suppressed; but so it is. 9 Although transit is reported safer from piracy and brigandage, and although the local crops were good, ("as shown by the trifling import of rice" -only 1,206 cwts., the average for five years being nearly 40,000 cwts., -- " and the large export of augar "-5,391 tons, against 3,136 tons in 1903) we read that the total tael value "has been the lowest since 1886." Mr. Hugues attributes this to further encroachments of rival trade routes, an in Hongkong, markets were sought inland for some of the more important stuples, for example, indigo and tobacco." Taking off the import and export of treasure, the inclusion of which in the volume of trade is apt to be misleading, as it is subject to extraordinary fluctuations, it appears that the actual export of native products from Pakhoi last year was in value only £69.065;

the imports, likewise, would be reduced to £268,425. Aniseed products now go vin the West River, and live pigs for Hongkong are shipped at Kwangchouwan-where possible. The raw silk export, that began with a inodest four hundredweights ten or eleven years ago, has now risen to 102 ewts. worth £1,813. That from Kinchou woven at Canton into a "durable pongee." A remarkable export for 1904 was 149,654 pairs of sea-vine bangles, worth altogether £1,072. Pakhoi also sent 207 head of cattle. The chief import was cotton varn, value £61,625, other cottons being n. pts $3.00 valued at £36.898. Opium worth £12,583 was imported. Foreign opium trade is now comparatively insignificant, but statistics of the native opium received from Kweichow (principally) and Yunnan are not complete. The average price of the native stuff is given as $514 per ewt, for the Kweichow, and $557 for the Yunnan supply. The cotton imports continue to grow, being the favourite. Kerosine and flour were important imports, although quoted amongst sundries. Of 1,326,240 gallons of the former, 901,125 were described as Russian. Borneo and Burman oil established a respectable footing, however; and Sumatra is expected to contribute before long. As in almost all parts of China, rubber shees and boots meet a ready market. Pak hoi took 3,579 pairs last year. Great Britain's share of the imports was about 40 per cent of the whole, its contributions being opium, cotton yarn, 261,625; woollen goods, A. K. Grant, promoted. about £2,000; and sundries, approxi mately £5,000. Burma oil accounted for £3,100 | witnessed yesterday afternoon during the hear worth of the sundries. Goods worth £26,887 were sent inland under transit pass; and indigo, sugar, and tobacco worth £4,736 came out. All the shipping is French, German, or Norwegian; not one British steamer appearing in 1904. In both

The 15th September was the seventy-sixth birthday of a great man. General Porfirio Diaz has been President of Mexico for thirty years, with a short interval of four years, when he was out of office. We understand his life is being written by Mrs. Alec Tweedie (Hurst and Blackett) whose former book, "Mexico as I saw It," had such a large sale three years ago. Mrs. Tweedie was in Mexico last winter again, as the guest of the President, and is compiling this life with his sauction, and from authentic diaries and documents he placed in her bands for the purpose. It promises to be a remarkable volume about the life's history of a man exciting life as a soldier, played an important part in the history of Maximilian and Carlota, and has now assumed the position of a Perpetnal President, and brought his country from chaos and revolution to peace and prosperity.

THE DEFENCE OF INDO-CHINA.

A Globe correspondent, writing at Toulon August 17, says:-Last night the torpedo craiser Foudre set sail with the Rapiere for Saigon, the capital of French Cochin China, with Bize ta as port of call. The Foudre took on board war material of very great importance, including III torpedoes of 0.450 for submarines, 15 torpedoes of 0:381 for first-class torpedo boats, and 18 tornedoes of 0.356 for torpado scouts. In addition to the two submarines Perle and Esturegeon, and the four torpede scouts being taken out by the Foudre, the latter is taking out four officers and 36 sailors, forming the crews of these six boats, and also an additional crew for use in case of accident with surgeon and nurse. On reaching Bizerts the Foudre will fall in with the flotilla of torpedo hoats to which she is to act as con voy to Indo-China.

THE HEAD CHIEF OF THE BOXERS SERIOUSLY ILL.

A Peking dispatch states that Prince Tsa Hsun. Third Order, a near kinsman of the cashiered Ex-Prince Tuan, has received telegram from the letter, who is residing in a small town, not far from the City of Hsian, the capital of Shensi province, to the effect that he is suffering from a serious malady, and also that he is in need of money to maintain and feed the few devoted retainers who have followed their Chief into banishment. As the anger of the Empress Downger against ex-Prince Tuan has not yet subsided ther Majesty naturally blames Tuan for having caused her flight from Peking in 1900), Prince Tesi Hsun did not dare to tell her Majesty of the blight of the father of the ex-Heir Apparent, P'u Chun, and to beg her Majesty to send Tuan some assistance, so recourse was had, it is stated to Prince Chin and one or two other relatives of the ex-Prince. A sum of Tls. 5,000 odd, was quietly collected and eventually sent to Tuan, but his prayer that his son, the ex-Apparent, now called Dake P'u Chun-a title given him by the Empress Dowager when taking away from him in 1901 the Heirship to the Drugon Throns—should be sent to Shensi to attend upon him had, perforce, to be denied, no one daring toask this favour from the Empress Dowager .- N.-C. Daily News.

> CHINA AND THE EASTERN RAILWAY.

It is pointed out here that China has become at least constructively a party to the peace negotiations, in consequence of the acceptance in principle by Russia of Article VII., which transfers the Chinese Eastern Railway below Harbin to China. The assent of China is required to the transfer, and her assent means that she must agree to remunerate Russia, who guaranteed the bonds issued for the construction of the line: Japan also has claims for rebuilding the line and it is not improbable that Tokyo is already in communication with Pekin on the subject. China, however, may not be willing to assume the fluencial burden involved in taking over the line, and if Japan is convinced that the railway will eventually become a paying commercial venture, she might herself advance the money to China. The money might also be raised by an international syndicate, and the line made part of the Chinese Imperial Railways. Japan, it is stated, has recognised that Russia is entitled to some remuneration, but the basis on which that remuneration is to be made is not yet known.-Reuter.

THE APPROACHING VANCY FAIR. The promoters of the Fancy Fair for raising funds for the St. Francis Xavier School, to be held on the 30th instant and 1st proxime, have abandoned their idea of holding the fair in the Flora Garden, as they have found out that the locality, although eminently suitable for the purpose, is rather far from the town, and inconvenient to both the promoters and the intending patronizers of the fair. As the feast of the Hely Reserv will also take place on the 1st proxime in the S. Domingo's Church, and near by is a new market just constructed but not yet opened, I would suggest that the fair be held there instead. The opening of the new market is fixed for the 28th instant, the anniversary of the birthday of their most Faithful Majesties the King and Queen of Portugal, but there will be no difficulty in postponing the opening until after the fair, to enable the premoters to use the place for that purpose. The benefit which can be derived if my auggestion is carried out is obvious. I hear means of attracting a large number of buyers of tickets for the fair, especially from your colony. The promoter is working very

ELECTRIC LIGHTING. I hear that this city will be lighted by electricity for the first time on the evening of the 28th instant, but how and from where the current will be obtained I am unable to enlighten your readers. The works are still under construction, and most of the machinery and other necessary appliances are still lying on the Houngshon wharf, to the great inconvenience of passengers to and from Macao and those who have occasion to make use of the wharf. Perhaps the steamboat company have granted this special privilege to the electric company, but they must also see to the convenience of the public and especially those who patronize the company. There is no reason why all these pieces of iron cannot be at once removed and deposited on the piece of reclaimed ground next Since Monday last the weather here has been very threatening, and all the junks and sampans went to seek shelter from the wind and the rain. Although the typhoon kept clear of this city again, we had a rather stiff gale from the N. and N.E., which made the sea very rough. Yesterday it was raining very hard.

ALLEGED MURDER AT KOWLOON.

On Thursday the police were apprised of an occurrence at Kowloon which at first sight boars indications of murder or manslaughter. A coolie named Yau Kam, came down from the country to inform a coolie employed by a local contractor that his father was sick and expressing the wish that he should return home. This desire was conveyed to the contractor who refused to allow his employee to go, au alterestion ensued between the coolie who brought the message and the contractor, but the quarrel was not confined to the two. Others interfered and apparently Yau Kam was set upon by several and so violently beaten that he succumbed about an hour afterwards. at 5.30, outside the Police Station. The affair took place on the Reclamation Works at Tsimteatsui.

At the Magistracy yesterday four men were brought before Mr. G. N. Orme in connection with the fatal affray. Their names were Wang Hing, Yan Tum, Wong Hong and Lui Sin, and they were charged with the wilful murder | Hing. of Yan Kam at Kowloon on September 21st. Inspector Langley asked for a remand till to-day, a request which was granted.

The post morten examination which took place yesterday revealed the cause of death to be rupture of the spleen. The deceased was found to have an enlarged spleen, and was kicked thereon by two of his assailants.

CLOSING A CHINESE PORT.

Considerable dissatisfaction has naturally arisen in local shipping circles over the action of the authorities at Lui Chow in prohibiting further trade with that place on the part of foreign merchants. It appears that some time ago through the application of the French. Administrator of Kwang Chow Wan, the mandarin at Lui Chow allowed a steamer sailing the French flag to enter the port and trade with foreign ports. This permission was given three years ago, and since then vessels under the British, German, Italian an Portuguese flags had entered the port, paying all charges and likins exacted by the Chinese authorities, and had made the place a trading port. It was not opened by any decree or treaty but was opened in fact by the traders concerned. Now the Viceroy of Canton. influenced it is suggested by cortain classes of people, has given orders not to allow any steamer to enter, but as there has been no official notification of this sent to the representatives of the countries interested we understand that several steamers intend proceeding appropriate as follows :- To pay a final dividend there in spite of the prohibition. It remains for the Consular authorities to discuss whether the action of the Viceroy is in accordance with that progressive policy which China is believed to be enunciating.

CANTON.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

Canton, 20th September. THE ALLEGED SEVERITY BY I. M. CUSTOMS: "LUCIA'S" PAPERS RETURNED AND A FINE IMPOSED.

I have since been informed that on the afternoon of the 15th instant the Portuguese Consul's chief clerk here had an interview with the Commissioner of Customs regarding the Inland Navigation papers of the Lucia and entreated him to impose a fine and grant the return of the papers to the vessel. At about 4 p.m on the same day the captain of the Lucius called at the Portuguese Consulate and reported that the Customs had returned the ship's papers to him, and imposed a fine of ten taels for breach of harbour regulations.

DARING DAYLIGHT ROBBERY,

At noon on the 19th instant seven robbers entered, a house, No. 81 Kong Nga Laue (Western Suburbs), occupied by a wealthy man surnamed Sun. They drove all the inmates of the house into a room and locked them up. After this they ransacked the premises and took away over ten thousand tuels' worth of jewellery and money. The robbers were all armed with revolvers, and one of the women that the Rev. A. Gomes, the principal promoter | who offered some resistance received a very of the fair, has been receiving from various severe cut on her head by the batt end of a places some very nice and valuable presents for revolver. The matter was reported to the The departure of the Volunteer cruiser | the occasion, and these, no doubt, will be the | Chief Police Station in Walled City. None of the robbers have been arrested yet, but the police are very active.

--- INCREASE OF NAVAL FORCE.

Owing to the inadequacy of the naval force to suppress pirates and bandits in the Kwangtung Province, Admiral Li Tsun has recruited 1,500 men for the navy. He has divided them into three divisions of 500 men each and has appointed a commander to each division. Yesterday the Sin-Hau-Kuk forwarded three seals to the admiral to be distributed among the three officers commanding those divisions

VICEROY'S NEW SEAL Sometime ago Viceroy Shum petitioned the Cabinet at Peking requesting them to cast a new seal bearing the following words :- " Viceroy of the two Kwang with full power to administec affairs of the Kwangtung Governor." It is said that the Throne has sanctioned the seal to be made and that it will arrive here shortly.

PETITION BOX. The new Nam Hoi, Chan Pak Hau, intends to introduce a novel way for people to send in their petitions to him.

Two letter boxes will be placed at the entrance of his yamen. These boxes will be locked and he will go personally to open the boxes and take the contents out every day. He believes that it is the best system to prevent his clerks and yamen runners from delaying or suppressing any petitions or letters of complaint against any of his subordinates which may be sent to him. All petitions posted in the bares must be stamped by the chop of a substantial shop or guaranteed by a "Ti Pou.".

A BIG BAVING,

It is said that Vicercy Shum took the trouble to reckon what amount could be saved through the abolition of the Kwangtung Governor's position, and that after going carefully into the figures he discovered that he is able to save over 20,000 tacks annually for the f'rovince.

ALLEGED PERJURY.

Arising out of the case dealt with at the Criminal Sessions on Monday when a woman named Lai Sui Shi ploaded guilty and was sentenced to three months' hard labour for forging a will on the 10th July, two men named Les Moi Ling and Ling Pong Kwan were charged with wilfully and corruptly committing perjury in connection with the document which purported to be the will of the deceased Lea Tai

Mr. F. B. L. Bowley, Crown Solicitor,

Ling Ping Kwan was remanded to admit of further inquiries, but the ease against the other defendant was proceeded with. Officials from the Registrar General's Dopartment were called and gave evidence to the effect that the men made a declaration before Mr Seth, the registrar to the Supreme Court The deceased, Lee Tai Hing, was said to have made out the will in question himself, and that on a certain day, during his illness, he went from his residence, 11 Albany Street, to the house next door. Dr. Jew Hawk, surgeon at the Tung Wa hospital, stated that he visited deceased prior to his death, and on the occasion of his first visit' deceased was too weak to move from his bad.

The widow of deceased said she had lived with him for 15 years. She was with him immediately before his death. He did not go out on the day in question and did not make a will that day. She was with him all the time. She did not recognise defendant.

Prisoner was committed for trial at the next Criminal Sessions of the Supreme Court.

PASTEUR INSTITUTE FOR THE STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS." Sin,-The recent offer of the Chinese Consul at Penning to present a Pastour Institute for the Straits Settlements and neighbouring regions, though undoubtedly prompted by the best motives, is very greatly to be deplored. both on account of the serious peril t would be to the human population and of the enormous amount of terrible suffering it would inflict upon dogs, and probably on other poor animals

The generous philanthropist who made this offer presumably does not realise that by building the suggested Institute he would be creating an "inferno" where dogs would be subjected to torture of the roost awful and appalling | description. And probably neither he nor those who hail him as a benefactor are aware that the Pasteurian anti-rabio treatment, far from being a cure for bydrophobia, either gives the very discase it professes to cure or has no effect at all. The death-roll of its human victims is a mighty one. I have before me a list containing names of nearly 2,000 persons known to have died from the effects of the Pasteur inoculations; and, no doubt, as many more have similarly died of the herrible and deadly poison put into their blood, of whom no record is to hand. This holocaust bears no resemblance to a successful romedy!

The statistics of the Pasteur Institutes are entirely misleading, for they include all those persons who, not having died under treatment, the very disease they dreaded after being turned out as "cured," and a very large proportion who have been "cured" of a disease which they | nover had at all, having suffered simply from anfounded and rilly scare.

for hydrophobia in the Buisson bath treatment, bung. which is really a ours and involves no danger to man and no cruelty to animals. It is the invention of a French dector, while M. Pasteur was merely a chemist. Buissenism is like the water of Jordan, too simple to find favour with those scientists who scorn every remedy that does not entail "research" into the maimed and mutilated, quivering and agonised living bodies of our fellow oreatures, the animals; but Pasteurism is the cruel and shameful terturing of dogs, and is therefore wrong and absolutely unjustifiable, and whereever Pasteur institutes are there hydrophobia now I am prepared to pay anything for even a provails and spreads, while Buissonism is semblance of comfort and deconoy. $75 may humans and safe, and is therefore advisable and right.

It is carnestly to be hoped, both in the interests of humanity and of mankind, that before too late a Buisson establishment will be substituted for the proposed Pasteur Institute.-I am, Sir, your obedient servent,

National Canine Defence League. 27, Regent Street, London, S.W.,

August 13th, 1905. [Dr. Charles Bell Taylor, of Nottingham, in his article in the National Review of July. 1890, gives several cases which furnish decisive proof that hydrophobia is sometimes brought on by the Pasteurian inconlations. In each case the patient was bitton by a suspected dog. underwent the Pasteuriau treatment, and died of hydrophobia, but the biting dog remained quite well! It is thus evident that persons who submit to the Pasteurian anti-rabio treatment run a very serious risk of getting hydrophobia.

The public are therefore strongly advised to refrain from resorting to this useless and dangerous treatment, bearing in mind that hydrophobia never results from the bite of a healthy animal and, further, that a very large majority of persons bitten by undoubtedly rabi animals escape unharmed. The Buisson Vapour 1 ath Treatment, from which no bad results can occur, is recommended in eases of bites inflicted by suspected animals.-J. H. GRIFFINS' EXPENSES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS." SIR,-It was with feelings skin to dismay that I read your leader in to day's Daily Press anont the cost of living in Hongkong. The chow was had, the attendance ditto, and the bathreom, which was situated at the other end apparently occupied as a bedroom by the amah at night-time.

THE HEREROS.

The German Colonies, a periodical, prints a bitherto unpublished proclamation by General von Trotha to the Hereros. It says:

I, the great chief of the German warriors. send this proclamation to the Herero people The Hereres are no longer German subjects. They have committed murders and robberies and in a cowardly manner mutilated wounded soldiers by cutting off their ears and noses. I say to them: Anyone who delivers a chieftain to any of the German stations shall receive a country. If they refuse I will compel them with the great guns to go. Any Herero found within the German frontier, armed or unarmed with or without cattle, will be shot. I will no longer receive women and children, but will drive them back to their own people or will i fire on them. Those are my words to the Herero people. At the same time an order of the day to the troops was issued explaining that the firing on women and children must be understood to mean tiring over their heads. No more male prisoners, it was added, should be taken, but women and children should not be ill-treated. Any troop of soldiers who captured a native chief were promised the same reward as offered for his surrender by his own people. It is pointed out that the order of taking no more prisoners was not strictly followed, as many hundreds of loopard from near Hongkong, presented by Mr., natives were captured after the order was

RUSSIA'S LAST LOAN, A COMPLETE FIASCO

GOVERNMENT CORRC NG THE BANKS: Regarding the Government's method of placing the new internal loan, the Slovo makes the following observations. The Ministry of Finance tried, but failed, to secure a foreign loan, and was compelled to have recourse to the issue of 200,000,000 roubles, which have not been offered to the public, but simply entered upon the budget of the Imp rial debt. This is a return to the earliest method of raising money. The Government began its loan dealings long ago by crediting itself through the instrumentality of the committee of bankers, who furnished the money required, and were allowed to decide the manner of placing the loan. The Government has been compelled to resort again to this system. The committee of the Russian banks has been invited under Government pressure to hand over 120,000,000 roubles of disengaged funds to the Imperial Treasury. and they receive five per cent. bonds at 95, redeemable at 100. In case the bankers are unable to dispose of these to the public, they must retain them in their safes.

The remaining bonds for 80,000,000 roubles are deposited in the safes of the savings banks. and the operation simply signifies that the Government regards these funds as at its

The Slove adds that the absence of a public subscription is due to the fear of the Figures Ministry of a fiasco. There is much disengaged money on the market, but no inclination to lend it to the Government for its present purposes. The market does not doubt the payment of the interest, but is now seriously anxious regarding the stability of the rate of exchange. The only result of forcing the banks to give up their ready cash will be to intensify the difficulty of satisfying the demands for credit from the industrial quarters, and thereby the trade crisis will be made worse.

ORDER CONFERRED ON BRITISH CAPTAIN.

The Merchant Service Guild has received the following letter from the Marquiss de Soveral, the Portuguese Minister in London, recognition of the gallant service done by Captain Higgins, s.s. Clan Mackay, one of the celebrated Clan Line steamers belonging to Glasgow: --

Portuguese Legation, London, 14th August, 1905. SIR,-With reference to my letter of 24th of May last, I now have the honour, by desire of my Government, to forward to you, for presentation to Captain C. I. Higgins, captain of the s.s. Clan Muckay, the Diploma and Cross of the Order of Christ, which His Majesty the King of Portugal has been pleased to confer upon him, and a gold chronometer presented to him by His Faithful Majesty's Government, in recognition of his most valuable services rendered on the occasion of the foundering of the Portuguese Transport Sao Thome. I am, Sir, yours faithfully.

(Signed) SOVERAL John G. Moore, Esq., Secretary, The Merchant Service Guild.

Captain Higgins is at present on an outward voyage to the Cape, but it has been arranged to make the presentation on his return to

From Pain of Terrible Itching Eczema -Unless-Hands Were Tied Would Scratch Till Face Was Raw-Mother Could Get No Rest.

FACE NOW CLEAR. CURED BY CUTICURA

" For over two years my little baby girl suffered with a raw, itching, and painful eczema on her head and face, the pain causing her to scream day and night, and my wife could get no rest. We tried several doctors, but without success. Unless we kept her hands tied she would scratch until her face was like raw beef. One cake of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticurs Ointment completely cured her, healing her face without mark or blemish. -(signed) W. J. Morgan, Orchard Town, New Lambton, N. S. W., Australia."

AWFUL SUFFERING

Baby's Face Solid Sore-Would Scratch and Tear Away the Flesh - Cured by Cuticura. "My baby's face was a mass of sores. The doctor called it eczema, but his treatment did no good, as the child was getting worse, the disease eating the flesh away from his nose, and spreading to his body. Neighbours said it was the worst case they had ever seen. His suffering was terrible, and he would scratch and tear away the flesh. We then used the Cuticura Remedies, one set curing him completely, and healing his face without scar or blemish. - Wm. Cridland, 35 Winchester St., Pentonville Rd., N. London, Eng.

Messrs. Vernon & Smyth say in their workly share report dated Hongkong, 22nd September, 1005 - We have nothing of any importance to report and but few changes in rates. The market continues very quiet, and in the absence of forward buyers is likely to remain BANKS.—Hongkong and Shanghais, have changed hands at $900, but sellers at that rate rule the market at time of writing. The latest London quotation is £90. 15s. In Nationals we have no change or business to report.

MARINE INSURANCES: Unions have been placed at the further improved rates of $780 and $7824, closing with buyers at $785. China Tradors, on rumours of a hitch in the transfer of the Company, have ruled quieter, and in order to effect sales on a wear market, rellers had to drop the rate three points to $77. At this rate a fair number of shares changed hands, and at the close shares are wanted at $78. The litch referred to appears to be a legal one which, in competent and skilful hands, can doabtless be circumvented and should not cause any serious nueasiness. Cantons remain quiet and without business at S235. Yangtszes and North Chinas unchanged and without business. SHIPPING - Hongkong, Canton and Macaos continue stendy at 5267 but without business In the absence of sel ers Indos have ruled weak, and sales have been effected as low as $92; at time of closing the market is somewhat firmer at Sps. Shanghai quotes Tls. 664, but the high exchange prohibits interport business. Donglases have found further buyers at $35, and Former | fair business has been put through at that rate.

JEWISH BANKERS AND RUSSIAN FINANCE.

A corespondence of the Jewish Chroniele writes :- The Russian loans have not been succossful This has been brought about by the ab deution of most important houses in London and other large centres of commerce refusing to have anything to do with Russian finance so long as the Jews remain in a position of inequality in Russia. A representative of the Russian Government in London was entrusted with approaching influential Jewish houses in this city. The reply was to the effect that no conditions could be made for the purpose of advancing money, but that an alteration in the situation of the Jews must be precedent to any negotiations having this object. It was suggested that if Russia was disposed to fall in with the views of the Jewish bankers, the Jews should, as a preliminary measure, be at once granted freedom of residence all over Russia. from which it could be seen that the Russian Government was in earnest. GRIFFINS AND THEIR EXPENSES.

begin with, I may state that I am a married men who may have their minds poisoned and beman, a fact of which my employer was fully come discontented by such a letter as appeared in aware when he engaged me at a monthly salary your paper of to-day's issue, that one can't run of $175 (and many promisos which have never with the have and ride with the hounds. As you can see, this is as far as my princely income will go: for such trifles as farniture. clothes, doctor, etc., my wife has to do her best home, the result of four years saving on less to earn the wherewithal to pay for these items. than $2,200 and such luxuries as whiskies, eights, theatres, than $2,100." or carriages have been out of the question altogether, since our arrival in China."

The same writer opined that a young man with £100 a year at Home could indulge in more luxuries and amusements than with $183 per month in Shanghail

"Milled Griffin" wrote:-"It is perfectly true that few junior clerks receive more than £100 per annum at home, but he will be more, satisfied with that salary than he will be with £200, or its equivalent ($2,000) in the Far East. When a man comes out to the Far East recognises at once that China is not a colonising country and therefore, if he does not wish to live and die in this country-there is no pleasure derived from thicking of this-he must endeavour to save and make sufficient torotire on before he reaches a certain age -say fifty-at which age a man feels the climatic conditions much more severely, way at this age, necessitating his return to the old country.

The griffin has a right to expect that he will save an adequate sum per annum, and, taking everything into consideration, I, for one, do not think any man should be brought out to China unless he is paid a sufficient sum to enable him to save, at the least, £100 per annum. admit that £100 can be saved out of a salary of £200 per annum-I have done it myself-but have only to say that I had not much of a time of it and eventually concluded that under such terms the "game was not worth the candle;" not that I was extremely eager to become member of "Cocktail Hall." a name well invented by your correspondent. "An Older Bird," but simply from the feeling that life was not worth living under the regime of an "absolutely slow-going Griffin" away from friends and relations, and living on foreign soil the life of an outcast.

The Far East, Mr. Editor, is not what used to be, judging from what we hear of the old days. Then every man became a merchant prince-at least he acted so-and indulged in extravagances only known to Lords and Dukes in the old country. These extravagances are to-day responsible—to a certain extent-for the present expensive style living out East, as the old enstoms living by the old merchant princes were copied and continued by their successors."

"Another Griffin" said :- "I may point out that the young man expects some quid pro quo death from disease is more likely to occur than in the home country. In any case no matter what the young man's salary was at home, the fact must not be lost sight of that he does not usually come out to China for the sake of his

"An Older Bird" takes the reasonable view that "The average junior clock of five years" experience in a home office, enjoying a salary of £100 a year and living in bachelor " digs. comes Far East for £240 and after a few months residence finds it necessary to expend £48 a year on clabs and club life, and important that he must stay in the best boarding-house at £108 a year, whereas at home he would have paid his way on £100 a year, forsworn clubs and carriages, lived in modest suburban quarters. and found his recreation with little expenditure of cash." The same correspondent'dubbed the Shanghai Club "Cocktail Halls" A Griffin "revises the first griffin's figures, saying :--I append a balance sheet that I think gives a

This leaves a margin of $50 per measure that can be banked, but making a further allowance, and setting £10 per annum aside for presents to his sister, perhaps, or odds and ends of various kinds, we find that the boy with $183 a month should find himself with £50 to his credit at the end of his first ye r.

A young fellow can make plenty of acquain-tances in his own sphere, and if he has any gumption at all he will weed out chopchop those who find whiskys and rodas a necessity, not to mention ponies and carriage drives.

I am no advocate of tectotalism, but between the taipan and the griffin there is a great gulf fixed, and it is manifestly absurd for young fellows with small wages to take to whisky and imported drinks as an everyday libation. These and other luxuries are to the older men, who by long service have carned the right and possess the means of having more comfort."

This one also had a good word to say for the taipan, as fellows :- "My experience of taipans and employers is that they very seldom ask anything unreasonable of young fellows, for after all they were the youngsters of yesterday. and if they see that a youth keeps his place and exhibits elementary common-sense in his private affairs they are all the more willing to recognise this in due course when promotion to a vacancy has to be arranged, and this is not only a reward to the junior but a good investment for the taipan. He too has to weed out."

We endorse some of the views of "Conscientions," but cannot help suspecting he may be a bit of a prig. He says:-I write from experienes when I state that a young man coming out to Shanghai on the salary of $2.200, $2.400 and $2,600 can benefit himself financially in those three years more than he could in double We take the following extracts from the the period by remaining at home. Now I'm not voluminous correspondence which appeared in N. C. Daily News on the subject:

A "Two-year-Ad griffin" wrote:—"To for that, but I would like to say to those young out medical attendance or quarters.

Now I find it impossible for me to keep a down. Walk and so get the necessary exercise. L herewith show an average of my monthly and besides you're then of use to the community, not a nuisance. And just bottle, some of that silly pride and live in more modest diggings, until you've climbed a little higher up the social ludder. If I was the employer of the young man who went the pace allowed for the $188 in in his first wear, I would keep a sharp eye on my till and wouldn't trust him further than I could kick him. It's after all a waste of time to argue with one who can only think of his clubs, whiskies, cigars, and other solfish pleasures and allow no sum for charity, or doing good to others, instead of gambling with them. I have no time for such a man or never had, or I wouldn't now have a wife and a furnished than $2,200 the first year and never higher

STARBOARD OR PORTA

For over twelve months the minds of nautical men have been disturbed by the enactment of a German ordinance which related in brief that, From April 1, 1904, only such steering orders shall be employed as indicate the position of the endder-blade, and not that of the tiller. From April I, 1905, onwards, the words 'starboard' and 'port' are to be used exclusively, with the additions so far as is required which indicate. the measure of the direction of the rulder; up to that date the words 'right' and 'left,' are are also permissible. The enactment, despite British opposition. came into force on April I last, and shipmasters have reported to the Mercantile Marine Service Association from time to time of the danger attending the alteration, and in some cases of narrow escapes they had of disaster owing entirely to the local orders of German and Datch Government pilots. The association have been in correspondence with the Board of Trade and are new in receipt of the following

Marine Department, Board of Trade, London, S.W.

Aug. 10, 1905. Sir-With reference to the difference which exists between the meaning of the terms used in giving steering orders on board British ships and that of the words now used in the vessels of certain other Maritime Powers, I am directed, by the Board of Trade to state that their attention has been called to the sorious risk of misunderstanding which may arise when British ships are in charge of foreign pilots who use steering orders in a sense contrary to the meaning they bear in this country.

In order to ke sen the possibility that casualties may be caused by any misapprehension of this kind, the Board of Trade desire me to point out that, although German and Dutch Government pilets are instructed to carry out the amended steering rule which requires the order "Starboard" when the ship's head is intended to go to starboard, and "port," i.e., " Backboard," when the ship's head is intended to go to port. they are in no wise authorised to give that rudder-command on board British ships, but are bound to indicate to the officer in charge ST. WARLIKE EXPLOITS OF THE

ARLES J. H. HALCOMBE, MEMBER OF CHINA REFORM PARTY. uthor of "The Mystic Flowery Land,"

"Travels in the Transvaal," &c., &c.

(Continued from last Saturday.) Thus terminated the mock trial and can demnation of an innocent and honourable man by no means an uncommon occurrence in Chinese court of law, where extertion and corruption of every conceivable nature influences the conduct of all those officials—and their which was separated by three barrier-like name is legion-who take advantage of a Government which allows its servants inadequate salaries, yet: gives them authority-to-obtain unlimited emoluments.

The news soon spread throughout Lien that the good merchant had been sentenced to death, and public feeling ran high, great indignation being felt against the dastardly crime perpetrated by the officials. Since Hung Fong's arrest, his wives and daughter had been kept in a state of perpetual alarm and anxiety, and, fearing insult and intrusion from the Yamon people and soldiers, had shut up the front part of the house and taken refuge in their own apartments, where they were waited upon and kept informed of all that transpired outside by their devoted amaks.

When the dread tidings came that the master had been condemned to decapitation, and that his estate was forfeited > the Government, a scene of indescribable anguish and confusion ensued. Poor Luh-hwa fainted away in the arms of her mother, who tearfully attended to her, while Mrs. Ab-choi wept hysterically and, being a practical woman, commenced hastily packing into a valise all her most valuable belongings, at the same time urging her companions to de likewise. But even the domestics were so overcome with griof that at first they seemed quite paralysed and could only mingle their tears with those of the two gentle ladies whose bearts seemed broken by this crushing blow. It was late in the afternoon when full particulars of this terrible eslamity reached the house and it was well known that next morning it would be taken possession of, and that the family would be either thrown into prison or transported to some distant province. When the first possionate outbreak of anguish had somewhat abated, Mrs. Hung Lee-fah, who was a brave and faithful wife, made preparations for another endeavour to see her poor husband, that she might comfort and take leave of him. To all appearances she was now calm and resigned, and a smile, which seemed to have something of pride and even triumph in it, at times settled upon her pale face as she moved about the house assisting the others to make ready for a speedy flight from the city. When all was completed, and arrangements had been made for horses to await the party outside the southern gate at midnight, she dressed berself in her costliest silken robes and sat down and wrote a letter to her absent son which ran thus:--

"The House of Virtuous Concord, Lien, "3rd day of Seventh Moon, 21st year of the Emperor Kuang-su. upon us, and in the darkest hour I am writing to tell you that through the machinations of the Taotai, Shun Ming, and the magistate, How Seng Wui, your poor father was recently airested and tried for being concerned with our thriftless relative, Hung Hoi, in causing a riot and in attempt ing to loot the Treasury. Hung Hoi was reall the true culprit, and was assisted by some proffi gate friends of his, but he was connected to denounce your honourable father as a graito; that we might be robted of our estate, and was days he had been there. then thrown back into prison where he immedigood father is innocent of any crime or misdemennour, yet he has been unjustly condemned to suffer to see you again." decapitation, with confiscation of all his property.

"May the gods grant that he may not suffer this indignity. I am now about to go to him and be with him until the end; for, as you know, the place of a dutiful wife is beside her lawful husband. and the prospect of being able to semewhat alleviate his sufferings, and of showing my gratitude for his loving kindness and protection a all times, by journeying with him into the regions of rest and happiness, fills my heart with contentment.

"My well-beloved son, you will not meet your good father and mother again upon earth, but I know you will remember them in your prayers; that you will not lorget their advice, or cease striving after virtue and learning; and that you will ever be a fond and faithful brother and guardian to your dear sister, Lah-hwa, to whose gentle care I am committing this letter, since she and Ah-choi are to leave Lien this night, it being dangerous for them to remain here longer. They will journey to Canten, where by the blessing of Providence, you and she may be united, and, with your step-mother, live in peace end unity. From them you will learn all details of this terrible calamity, which has broken our he exclaimed admiringly, removing his own hearts and home, branded our kindred as felons and fugitives, and given to the fatherless children of heroes and patriots a birthright of penury and

"Farewell, dear Cheng, and may the gods continually watch over you and direct your heart in virtue, diligence and understanding, and make your life shine with high and creditable works; and this is the last earnest wish and prayer of your true and devoted mother.

"HUNG LEE-PAH." Having enclosed the letter in an envelope,

"My dear Luh-hwa," said Mrs. Lee-fah in a kind, solemn voice, "if I loved my husband and infinite tenderness, again cares ing her, "for my children less. I should not hold their fair | the time has come when I must prepare to leave | name and honour dearer than my own humble this abode." life; but, as it is, my relationship to him and you enables me to avail myself of the privilege said, looking into his face with a last lingering Cheng, as his guest, until the morrow, when he of being with him in the hour of departure gaze, and then turning quickly away and leaving intended to try and obtain an audience with the from this sad world, and of accompanying him his presence. in his life's last journey.

t containing clothing and valuables and, throw ing a large shawl over her head and shoulders. made her way to one of the back doors of the house where a small sedan-chair was awaiting her. Stepping in, she directed the bearers to take her to the temple and, drawing down the front and side blinds, she sat back with a tear ful amile upon her pale, handsome face.

The streets were comparatively deserted, and the silence of death and disaster seemed to have fallen upon that once presperous city, blighting the lives and fortunes of its citizens, and drawing the very blood from its arteries. turning a corner of the road to cross the market pace, the chair bearing Mrs. Hung passed the front entrance of her residence, buildings from the ladies' apartments at the rear of the house, and here she noticed with no little alarm a guard of soldiers keeping watch:

When alighting at the temple, she told the chair-coolies to wait for her, and then ascended the steps to the main hall which was in deep gloom, no one being there save a couple of priests who retired into the darkness of the interior as the veiled lady appeared. Moving to where Kwun Ynm, the Goddess of Morcy, prosided in silent pomp, her head towering among circling clouds of incense, the placed some lighted joss sticks and some food offerings upon the altar, and, lighting a couple of red-coloured candles, prostrated herself before the benignant deity, invoking her aid and blessing, and consigning to her care the children she would never again meet on earth.

Rising and placing a liberal offering of money upon the altar, she then went to the head priest to whom, on bended knee and with both hands, she gave the ancestral tablets, at the same time begging him to keep them safe until such time as they should be claimed by her son or his heirs. The priest, who was an old, white-headed man, spoke kindly and sympathetically to her, expressing his respect for the family and promising to place the tablets in a secluded place. He then knelt with her and prayed that the dark clouds might in time be dispersed from that unhappy city. After presenting him with a liberal gratuity, she quitted the temple, and entering her conveyance at once set out for the gaol which was close at hand.

On arriving there-she gave directions for the chair to wait, and knocked upon a large door which was pierced by a barred window. Her summons was answered by a soldier to whom she gave a written message to the chief gaoler; but the man refused to admit her or deliver her message until he had extorted a heavy "squeeze." Then the door was held open and she was conducted to a small lodge where she waited for some time. Presently Severneck came and led her to a somewhat larger building, where she was ushered into proprietors, the Foster-McClellan Co. 8 the presence of the head gaoler who for some time refused to entertain the idea of allowing her an interview with her husband; but at length her increased offers of remuneration, which consisted of money and jewels to the amount (. about two thousand taels, had the desired effect, and with apparent reluctance the sadly and reminiscently about her, large tears

For a few moments neither could speak, and he could only look upon her and then down upon his ragged clothes and heavy leg fetters. There was, indeed, a marked alteration in that fine man, for his face was drawn and pallid, and seemed to have lost its dignity and to have bended beneath the burden of his trials. But now he pulled himself together and stood erect, and a warm, proud smile drove from his countenance the look of hopeless gloom which i had settled there.

"My faithful Lee-fah," he said tenderly, "J can now go away happy, for I am innocent; but I will not be excecuted—that dishenour would be too great!"

"You speak well, my own dear Fong; and my soul shall bear yours company," she said, opening her bundle and taking from it the merchant's best silk clothes, at the same time throwing from herself the large shawl with which she was enveloped, and appearing to him in all ber gorgeous attire.

NINE MONTHS FLAT ON HIS BACK WITH RHEUMATISM AND KIDNEY DISEASE.

Mr. J. H. Thomas, whose full address is Brook Terrace, Panty Bach Road, Birchgrove, Whitchurch, near Cardiff, Wales, wrote us on December 31st, 1903, describing his terrible illness and the good Donn's Backsche Kidney Pills had done him. When, nine months later (October 31st, 1904), our representative called to see Mr. Thomas, every word of the testiment was gratefully and sarnestly confirmed. "A what is more," Mr. Thomas declared, "I am still well to-day and able to go to work and earn my living as well as ever I could. Yes. Sir, Doan's Backache Kidney Pills saved my life, and anyone here will tell you the same." Going on to speak about his suffering, he said :-"It was while I was working in the Melingrifith Iron Works, 25 years ago, that I was taken ill, with a severe attack of rheumatic fever, and not a single winter since then—until I began with Doan's Backache Kidney Pillshave I escaped a return of the cruel disease. At times I've been so bad that I haven't dared to move. Once I was lying flat on my back for two months straight off, and not one of my friends ever expected to see me about again. For twelve menths after that I couldn't get about without crutches (mother still has the crutches, which, thank goodness, I never need now) My right leg became so drawn up with

"I will-try to describe how I felt in those day, placed for the convenience of poor people, My back-oh, how it used to hurt me! I couldn't help crying out when I stooped. I'm at gardening work now, bending over all the time and in all weathers, but Doan's Backache Kidney Pills have protected my back against those awful pains. My eyes used to be yellow and dull, and the kidney secretions were thick and white like lime. The rheumatism was enough to drive me out of my mind. remember once, after one of my worst attacks, I reached the stage when one gets beyond pain and suffering, and knew nothing of what was going on around me. My poor mother thought the end so long expected had come at last.

"When I wrote, several months back, and told how Doan's Backache Kidney Pills had saved my life, I thought them the best medicine in the world. To-day, now that my cure has stood such a long test. I am sure of it, and I wouldn't like to be without a box of the Pills in the house. I've been another man since using them, and our home's like another home."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are 2/9 a box. or 13/9 for 6 boxes. To be had of all chemists and medicine dealers, or direct from the Wells Street, Oxford Street, London, England, post free on receipt of price.

fallen, impressing the weary, forlorn woman with her utter loneliuess and the desolution of greedy vulture took the heavy bribe and silently coursing down her once levely face and dropping upon her breast as these familiar surroundings called back to her mind bright and hallowed memories of a serone, happy life. in which she and her beloved husband and children had participated in heart-bound unity and contentment. But these were idle dreams: for the past would not come back again, and she stood alone on the deserted stage. Then, with a great mosning sob. she turned away and disappeared into the gloom of the untenanted

That night two of the noblest and most honourable citizens that had ever dwelled within the walls of the ancient city pused from the known throughout Lien that the worthy ricemerchant and his devoted wife had ceased to exist, and that the rest of his family had abandoned the palatial home and fled from the neighbourhood. He had strangled himself on the previous night id his cell, shortly after taking leave of Mr. Hung, thus dying in a manuer honourable to the traditions of his race and escaping the double degradation of being executed by decapitation; while she had faithfully followed him to the grave by resorting to the usual Oriental method practised by women in swallowing opium, and that morning one of the Taotai's officers who had been deputed to take possession of the estate, had found her lifeless body. clothed in

After a somewhat leisurely journey of thirteen days which had been made by boat from Ying-tin, coming down the Pekiang river, Montrose and his Chinese friends reached Canton one evening just before sunset, and entered the city by the Pak Moon, or North Gate, which stands directly to the westward of the eminence over which the city wall passes, and is one of the most important of the twelve Then, when they were both apparelled alike, outer gates, there being four others which lead

The three travellers and the fuithful Ah Sam journey's end, and looked about him with eager provincial capital with its archaic timples, he and Montrose, and the young student. Tai Mockwah, had become fast friends, and it was with feelings of true regret that they at length come to a standstill outside a large Chinese looked quite dazed and heart-broken as she him until she had received his last blessing and commencing his final studies for the examination, promised to meet Montrose at eleven o'clock on the following day for the purpose of sight-seeing. Not so with poor Tai, who smiled Badly, and when they asked him to join them, answered that his time was precious and his "And my soul will travel with yours," she duty pressing, though he consented to stay with Prefect of Kwang-chow-foo, who governed At the door of the cell she was met by fourteen districts and acted in the capacity of Having left his friends, Montrose made his munity dwells, which is situated in the neighbourhood of the western suburb of Canton, and is considered one of the most picturesque settle. ments in China.

He was fortunate enough to find that the lodgings he had formerly occupied during his stay there, and in which he had left much of his luggage, were vacent, so he soon made himself comfortable and enjoyed a hearty meal, at the rear of the house and, while enjoying a pipe meditated upon recent events and watched the last rays of the declining sun gild the treesurrounded pagoda of Macao Fort, and finally chimb the purple hills of Blenheim Reach, and Luli-lims slowly and sorrowfully left the apart. I moon cast a faint light over the grounds and night-songs which soon woodd the tired ment, Mrs. Hung picked up a red bundle house, upon which an ominous tranquillity had listener to the comforts of a downy bed; and, although the mosquitoes were there before him, his slumbers were peaceful and refreshing. Next morning at ten o'clock, Montrose sat out for Ninth Word-street, near which stands the celebrated Fan Lun Sze, or "Temple of the Fire Hundred Gods," where he had promised to meet Cheng. The weather was fine, and the streets were filled with traffic : coolies carrying burdens slung on either end, or in the middle, of bamboo poles; public sedan chairs, and large blue or green covered palaquias adorned with silken tassels and carried by four or eight bearers. the number varying according to the rank or wealth of the owner; and pedlars, lepers and blind beggars helped to form the motley though good-humoured procession which incessantly poured through the numerous thoroughfares. On either side were shops, in front of which long red or black signboards, bearing the name and trade of toe proprietor and the grandiloquent designation of his hous. were suspended above the pavement in such a manner that a moderately tall man was obliged to constantly stoop or dodge about and run the risk of braising his head or of overturning one of the many stalls which hamper the sufe-walks, these being leased by the shopkeepers to patty traders whose shouts increase the dia, above which is frequently heard the shrill cry of "Hoo on too!" (clear the way) as the approach of a high mandarin is heralded by a troop of ragged lietors with comical wickerwork hats, followed by petty officials on horserheumatism that one of the doctors said it back, gong-beaters whip and chain bearers and would have to be cut off, but my mother, angry armed "braves" who form the cortége and guard at the very thought of it, refused to listen to of the great taipan. Outside most of the merchant hongs large creeks of hot ten were

> On nearing the aforesaid temple, Montrose saw Cheng waiting for him at a corner of the street. The latter was dressed in a long, yellow silk robe with a pale-blue brocaded jacket, and looked very smart and handsome. After exchanging greetings, Montrose inquired after their travelling companion.

" Poor Tai," said Cheng sadly; "he came to my room early this morning and bade me goodbye as he wished to see the chief magistrate, and if possible obtain his father's immediate release by offering to suffer in his stead." "A most noble, though misguided purpose," remarke i Montrose. "His conduct is beyond human criticism, isaid Cheng, in a tone of mild rebuke; "and may the gods be with him and avert a double disaster. " But I am glad to have met you," he added with a smile, "for your companionship is agreeable to me, and we have much to see that will instruct and interest us both."

Ascending the broad steps of the temple, they passed through a range of small chambers until coming to the Lao Hang Tang or Hall of Saints a spacious and magnificent apartment in which five hundred images of deified Buddhist worthies were arranged in avenues. These idols were mostly composed of / a particular kind of clay covered with highlyglazed gilt and were cloverly and often very artistically made, each having its peculiar posture and facial expression.

WORCESTERSHIRE.

Wanted-Herpicide WHAT AUTHORITIES SAY ABOUT DANDRUFF, FALLING HAIR AND BALDNESS.

IT BEGINS IN THE YOUNG. Dr. Sabourand, of Paris, France, one of the greatest living authorities upon diseases of the hair and scalp, has recently published the most exhaustive work ever written upon this subject. Dr. Cartez, himself an eminent investigator, in reviewing this book for Lag Nature, enbmits the Doctor's conclusion in the following terse announcement: "BALDNESS IS A CONTAGIOUS DISEASE CAUSED BY A MICROBE. So far from being a diesase of old age, it is an affection of youth. IT BEGINSIN THE YOUNG; and increases, whether rapidly or slowly, up to the fiftieth year.' We learn, therefore, that baldness as a destructive malady is not a disease of old age, but of youth, for in bald old men we simply see the RESULT of a disease that has been slowly doing its work for many years. The young man with abundant hair may not know that he has the disease that will later produce baldness; in fact the first certain evidence of its presence is the appearance of dandruff, which is f llowed, sooner or later, by itching of the scalp, and finally the hair will begin to fall out.

CHRONIC BALDNESS POSITIVELY INCURABLE. Later in life the disease will have done its work, and chronic baldness, either partial or complete, will be the result. In chronic baldness the hair follicles, which completely fill the scalp, are greatly shrunken in size, and this shrinking causes the skiu to stretch and appear shiny, indicating a complete atrophy of the follicles, in which case, no power on earth can bring another crop of bair.

If the baldnesss is acute or only partial, it shows that many of the hair follicles are not badly diseased, for the microbic growth is confined to the sebscious glands and has not yet extended to the papilla, or true hair root. Cases of this character are curable, even though the baldness is apparently complete. Newbro's Herpicide should be used until the last symptom of parasitic growth has disappeared, and in connection with its use the scalp should be skilfully massaged to remove the dead hairs and keep up a full blood supply to the papillae. This treatment, persevered in, will enable persons papillae. This treatment, persevered in, will enable persons partially bald to retain what hair they have, and in many cases get a full new crop. Determined resistance should be offered to the formation of the first "shiny spot," for this shrinking process, by restricting the blood supply to the scalp, greatly hastens approaching baldness.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE WILL NOT GROW HAIR, DET IT DESTROYS THE GERM OR PARASITE IN THE SCALP AND NURSES THE IMPOVER SHED FOLLICLES BACK TO HEALTH, THUS PERMITTING HAIR TO GROW AS NATURE INTENDED.

DOCTOR WATERHOUSE, A WELL-KNOWN PHYSICIAN OF IOWA, U.S.A., and Member of the Firm of Dyer and Waterhouse, advised the Rev. R. N. Toms, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, at Charter Oak, Iowa, U.S.A., to use NEW-BRO'S HERPICIDE; read his letter about it. Messrs, Dyer and Waterhouse, Druggists, Gentlemen: The Herpicide you recommended to me for use as a remedy for dandruff and baldness has proved a great success. I have used only one bottle and the result is surprising. The scalp has been thoroughly cleansed from dandruff: the old hair has been softened and strengthened; while short soft hair has already appeared in the bald spot; and I have been greatly relieved from headaches. I most earnestly recommend all afflicted, as I have been, to stry NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE.

(Signed) Rev. R. N. TOMS, Pastor First Presbyterian Church, Charter Oak, Iowa, U.S.A.
